To the Department of Justice;

I watch our great country being eaten up by corporations such as Philip Morris, News media giants, and several other powerful corporations and the justice system seems to turn their heads. We can't help but wonder when a company as great as Microsoft, which has created enormous opportunities and wealth for the American people and the world, Contributes billions of dollars to some of the poorest nations in the world, is always brought to task. Is it because our government and justice system is being control by corporations more powerful then themselves?

My family and many friends are quite happy with Microsoft and their way of doing business. We will always support and buy their products no matter how hard their competitor's try to destroy them. We beg you to search your conscience and not bend to giant corporate pressures.

Sincerely;

Shuryl A Potter
